

Amanuel Biedemariam :

“Eritrea is a beacon of resilience”

“To the Heroes of ELF, EPLF, and the Defenders of Eritrea’s Freedom: You are the architects of our Liberation, the lifeblood of our struggle, and the embodiment of Eritrea’s indomitable spirit. Your sacrifices carved the path to freedom, your vision built the foundation of our nation, and your courage forged a legacy of resilience that endures in every Eritrean heart...We owe you our existence as a free nation and enduring spirit of hope, determination, and perseverance that propels Eritrea toward an ever-brighter future. Your sacrifices live on, guiding us as we continue the journey you began”.

“For decades, Eritrea’s story has been overshadowed by distorted narratives crafted by external powers with vested interests in subjugating this resolute nation. Our history – defined by struggle and extraordinary triumph – has often been reframed through the lenses of colonial ambitions and regional politics. Over the past thirty years, as Eritrea steadfastly pursued self-reliance, these misrepresentations escalated into sustained defamation campaigns. These efforts sought to discredit Eritrea, branding it among the world’s most challenging places while overshadowing the essence of a nation built on resilience and unity.”

“Yet, Eritrea stands as a powerful testament to perseverance at the heart of the Horn of Africa. Anchored by an unyielding commitment to sovereignty and dignity, its people have refused to be defined hostile portrayals...”

“As the author, my mission is to correct enduring misconceptions, highlights Eritrea’s remarkable achievements, and provide a platform for voices too often overlooked...”

“Through these pages (280), I invite you to challenge preconceived notions and uncover the Eritrean beneath layers of misinformation...”

“This is Eritrea’s story, told by Eritreans for the world to hear. It is a narrative of vindication, triumph over adversity, and an unshakable belief in a brighter future.”
